

LIFE OF A PIMPLE.

Complexions are Cleared and Pimples Disappear Overnight Without Trouble.

The dispenser of possum, a new skin discovery, ask that notice be given that no one is urged to purchase it without first obtaining an experimental package. Every one who has tried it knows that the fifty-cent box, on sale at drug stores and all drug stores, is sufficient to cure the worst cases of eruptions, where the surface affected is not too large. The itching ceases on first application. It will also cure acne, catarrh, blotches, warts, scabs, hives, hives, and every other form of skin trouble, including itching feet. Being flesh-colored and containing no grease, the presence of possum on exposed surfaces, such as the face and hands, is not perceptible. Water and soap cannot be used in connection with it, as these irritate and prolong skin troubles, sometimes even causing them. As to the experimental package of possum, it can be had free of charge by mail of the Emergency Laboratories, 22 West Twenty-fifth Street, New York. It alone is sufficient to clear the complexion overnight and to rid the face of pimples in twenty-four hours.

RAISE ENDOWMENT FOR THE CHURCH

Plans Laid to Relieve Bishops of Embarrassing Financial Problems.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] RALEIGH, N. C., May 15.—One of the features of the ninety-third annual convention of the Diocese of North Carolina last night was the adoption of a resolution directing the committee on the episcopate and contingent funds to employ an agent to go into the field and raise an endowment, that bishops, especially, may be relieved of the embarrassment of depending on current collections or borrowed finances. There was discussion of the need for a church paper for North Carolina, and a special committee was appointed to confer with representatives of the Eastern Carolina and the Asheville Dioceses with a view to getting together in the support of such a paper. The bishop named as a committee in this connection: Rev. A. B. Burkley, Mayodan; Rev. S. R. Guignard, Greensboro; and Rev. W. J. Smith, Charlotte. Much gratification was expressed at the report of the committee on the state of the church, showing, as it did, that interest is much above the normal and steady progress is being made along all lines of church endeavor. In connection with the report of the superintendent of the Thompson Orphanage, there was special emphasis on the great need of more buildings. A special committee, with general Carl

YOUNG WOMAN DROWNS.

Miss Sallie Kidd Meets Death When Boat Is Capsized.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] COLUMBIA, VA., May 15.—By the capsizing of the ferryboat at Elk Island farm Thursday five persons were thrown into the James River, and one, Miss Sallie Kidd, daughter of Charles Kidd, was drowned. Miss Kidd was accompanied by her sister, Miss Josie, a younger brother and the little son of Dr. Freeland, from whose home they were returning.

The accident was caused by the boat coming in contact with a broken guy rope, which was hanging loose from the main rope. All except Miss Sallie clung to the overturned boat, and were rescued some distance below the place of the accident. Miss Sallie grasped the broken rope and held on bravely for some time, but was finally overcome by excitement and exhaustion and released her hold, while the ferryboat, which was carrying the other passengers, was rescued by the boatmen.

LIFE'S PRAYERS ARE ANSWERED

Women Meet Old Veteran Who Assisted Dying Father on Battlefield.

BRISTOL, VA., May 15.—Three women of old Virginia, who had prayed to God for children who they might be spared to see the man who had experienced the risk of capture in order that he might administer to their dying father, rejoiced in the realization of their prayer when they met that man on the Lloyd farm, near Dublin, at the reunion last week.

It was Captain A. S. McNeill, of Bristol, a man who endured many of the hardships of war, including prison life at Camp Chase, that these women desired to see, although they did not know his name, or that he was still living until they met him incidentally at the reunion. It was on this battlefield that their father met death. He was the Rev. William P. Hickman, a Presbyterian minister, of Scotch-Irish descent, and whose home was near the battlefield. Against odds Hickman went into the battle with his company, at the time wearing the tall silk hat which he wore as a minister. He was shot and mortally wounded as the Confederates were falling back, pressed by the Federals.

As Captain McNeill relates it, Hickman fell near him. The dying minister called for help, and although the Federals were upon him, Captain McNeill stopped and lifted up the form of the dying man. Learning his body against a tree, he gave the minister a drink of water from his canteen. A moment later and Captain McNeill was a prisoner, along with about 300 soldiers of the same command. He heard afterwards of the minister's death, but did not know that the surviving family was cherishing that last act of kindness. Naturally, Captain McNeill inquired for members of the minister's family upon arriving at the battlefield last week. He was soon introduced to three daughters of the minister. They were: Mrs. J. M. Brown, Mrs. W. A. Chumly and Mrs. W. N. Gilliam.

"To me," said Captain McNeill, "it was a benediction to meet these good women and see the tokens of gratitude course down their cheeks as they grasped my hand in token of the long-cherished remembrance of a deed about which I thought very little at the time. I had not dreamed of the news or my act ever reaching the ears of members of the minister's family. I was not seeking notoriety. I only administered to the dying man, just as I would have had a comrade administer to me under similar circumstances. I want to me it is a source of great satisfaction to have learned, and that in the most incidental way, that what I did for the relief of a dying comrade has been a blessing in the hearts of his children for forty years. If it were known I doubt if I isn't a very few soldiers who went through the four years of that conflict without having done some such kindness to a dying comrade."
